

LAWYER SENT TO PRISON

John McLaughlin, a Former Attache of the Corporation Counsel's Office, Pleads in Vain for Mercy at Akron, O.

After a piteous appeal to the court not to brand him as a felon, John McLaughlin, a former attache of the Corporation Counsel's office in this city, was today sentenced to two years' imprisonment by an Akron, O., Judge. The Judge told McLaughlin, who is described as a bright young man by his former New York associates, that as an attorney he should have known and respected the law, and could expect no clemency. The telegraphed account states that McLaughlin broke down in court and wept bitterly as he was led to the prisoners' pen to begin his prison career.

McLaughlin is twenty-eight years of age and was appointed to his position as Junior Assistant by ex-Corporation Counsel Whalen Nov. 1, 1932. He received a salary of $1,500. He was regarded as an ambitious young lawyer whose prospects were greater than those of the average struggling lawyer of Blackstone. He aided in the preparation of several important cases and attracted attention to himself by his careful and complete work. He was then residing at 101 West Eleventh street with his parents.

He remained in the office of the Corporation Counsel until the advent of the present administration, when he resigned. He had as associates the sons of several wealthy families, and was being a son of the late John O'Neill, it is said. When McLaughlin was heard from he had gone West. In Akron, O., he was arrested last Friday for robbing a colored lady. His case hung fire until the other day, when he was placed on trial.

He threw himself on the mercy of the court and pleaded in extenuation of his act that he had no intention of committing a crime when he took the money from the lady. He said he was not in his right senses, in fact, when he apprehended the boy and held him up. Powerful influences were brought to bear in behalf of McLaughlin and much correspondence passed between friends in this city and Akron.

AMERICAN GIRL ABROAD.

Her Emancipation a Puzzle to Conservative English.

"My American cousin," says a writer in a London woman's journal, "came to call today, bringing her parents along. My transatlantic relative is called Elizabeth and she lives in St. Louis. I had never seen her before and I felt that I was under the ordeal of a strict scrutiny, but all ended well and the good understanding between the two countries is happily intact. On the whole, I think Elizabeth approved of me and especially of my drawing-room. She had a good deal to say about the water colors and bronzes, showed a suitable curiosity about my old Venetian conservatory, and was not above accepting a green majolica frog from the fortress of Gibraltar."

"When the whim takes her Elizabeth seems to go to school in Paris, when she has had enough of it she bestows her charming company on her parents and runs them through Italy or across Ireland. She likes London, especially the Tower, which seems to have an endless fascination for the American child."

"I could read Elizabeth's history forever," declared Elizabeth with enthusiasm. "Those beautiful legends are so interesting. But though she is devoted to the axe and block Elizabeth, I fancy, is always doing the Northumbrian Lord before she falls."

"Her parents are beautifully brought up and quite doleful; they sit and regard her with adoring eyes. On the whole, Elizabeth is a most charming specimen of young America: genial, affable, alert, capable, in short, wholly amazing."

80 DEER BAGGED ON FIRST OPEN DAY

Animals So Riddled with Bullets that It Was Impossible to Decide Who Shot Them and Many Disputes Followed.

The deer on Long Island to-day are taking to the tall brush and hiding out as far from the haunts of men as they can get. Eighty of them fell victims to the rifles and shotguns of ambitious hunters on the first open day of the year and they do not wish the rate of mortality increased.

Sportsmen had ranged themselves twenty feet apart all along the line separating the public land from the South Side Club's preserves and every time a deer showed its head there was a roar of musketry that reminded the oldest inhabitant of the tales of their grandfathers formerly told of revolutionary days.

Every deer that fell was riddled with buckshot and bullets and gave cause for a dispute as to ownership. The small boys and weak young hunters had no chance at all, for every deer that fell was claimed by the big strong men who held that their bullets had brought the animal down whether they had hit it or not.

The open season this year includes Friday of next week and Wednesday and Friday of this week.

CROKER'S OLD CHUM DEAD.

W. B. O'Rourke, Supt. of Metropolitan Hospital, Passes Away.

William B. O'Rourke, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwell's Island, died today from acute gastritis after an illness lasting for several months.

Last summer Superintendent O'Rourke while on his vacation was taken seriously ill, and an extension of time was granted him. He had apparently recovered when he returned to his duties, but last Friday was forced to take to his bed. A widow, two daughters and a son, all young, survive him. He was fifty years old.

Mr. O'Rourke was a chum of Richard Croker, the late Tammany chieftain, for many years. As boys they went to school together, and it was through the former leader's influence that Superintendent O'Rourke gained his political position.

ASTHMA BRONCHITIS CONSUMPTION

There is no question about good food and good air being good for consumption, they are good for every one. As long as the germs are in the system no food or air will do any good. They multiply too fast for any treatment. It requires a radical treatment like the one given at 125 West 22d St. next to Ehrlich's store, to destroy the germs before it is too late.

When I went to see the doctor I was putting a great deal of yellow mucus, had night sweats, cough and often spit blood, and was sick at my stomach, had lost about 50 pounds, and was so weak that I could not walk any distance. After the doctor began treating me I improved slowly at first; after four months' treatment I felt well and have continued to feel well for almost two years. I would recommend the doctor at 125 West 22d St. to any one who is suffering from Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Cures Catarrh, Deafness, Stomach and Kidney Troubles. Examination free, 11 to 12 daily, Sundays, 11 to 1, at Dr. KUCH'S SANITARIUM, INC., 119 West 22d St., between N. Y. Call, write or telephone 1228-15th.
